The Scramble for Africa, also known as the Race for Africa or Partition of Africa was a process of invasion, occupation, colonization and annexation of African territory by European powers during the New Imperialism period, between 1881 and World War I in 1914. As a result of the heightened tension between European states in the last quarter of the 19th century, the partitioning of Africa may be seen as a way for the Europeans to eliminate the threat of a Europe-wide war over Africa.

Abstract: The Scramble for Africa was a period of rapid European colonial expansion in Africa during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. This period was characterized by intense competition between European powers to acquire territories in Africa, driven by economic motives such as the search for raw materials and new markets, as well as imperialist ambitions. The process of colonization led to the establishment of numerous European colonies across the continent, which had profound and lasting impacts on African societies, economies, and political structures. This paper explores the historical context, key players, and the consequences of the Scramble for Africa, highlighting the role of European imperialism and the impact on African peoples.
